Cambridge has received this week a most welcome visitor in the person of Lieut-General Sir John French, who is now stationed at Aldershot in command of the 1st Army Corps. On Monday evening he was the guest of the Head Quarter Companies of the 3rd (Cambridgeshire) Volunteer Battalion Suffolk Regiment. The Guildhall was well filled by the members of the Battalion, their friends and guests, who assembled to witness the annual distribution of prizes. The officer at present commanding the Cambridge Companies is Major G. F. Whitmore, who will be remembered as Captain in charge of the Suffolk Volunteer Company in South Africa. After presenting the prizes Sir John French spoke as a great General, briefly and frankly. He paid a kindly tribute to the good work done...
