The Beginning of All Things: Science and Religion (Paperback)

By Hans Küng

William B Eerdmans Publishing Co, United States, 2008. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 224 x 150 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Translated by John Bowden In an age when faith and science seem constantly to clash, can theologians and scientists come to a meeting of minds? Yes, maintains the intrepid Hans Kung, as he brilliantly argues here that religion and science are not mutually exclusive but complementary. Focusing on beginnings -- beginnings of time, of the world, of man, of human will -- Kung deals with an array of scientific precepts and teachings. From a unified field theory to quantum physics to the Big Bang to the theory of relativity -- even superstring and chaos theories -- he examines all of the theories regarding the beginning of the universe and life (of all kinds) in that universe. Kung seeks to reconcile theology with the latest scientific insights, holding that a confrontational model for the relationship between science and theology is out of date, whether put forward by fundamentalist believers and theologians or by rationalistic scientists and philosophers. While accepting evolution as scientists generally describe it, he still maintains a role for God in founding the laws of nature by...
